From "Victor the Shaman":

I feel the need for more humanity because the winter wren is not enough, even with its complicated music emanating from the brambles. So I relent to my friend who keeps bugging me to see her shaman, tutored by the Indians who live at the base of Monte Albán. Tutored also by the heavy bagat Sonny's Gym: Box like heaven / Fight like hell his T-shirt says; the graphic shows an angel's fist buried to the wrist in Satan's brisket, while the prince of dark jabs the angel's kisser . . .

Lucia Perillo grew up in the suburbs of New York City in the 1960s. She graduated from McGill University in Montreal, completed her MA in English at Syracuse University, and for most of the 1990s she taught in the creative writing program at Southern Illinois University. She currently resides in Olympia, Washington.
